

The

Werewolferpillar

By: Steven Jacobs

Illustrated by: Steven Jacobs

The

Were wolf erpillar

By: Steven Jacobs

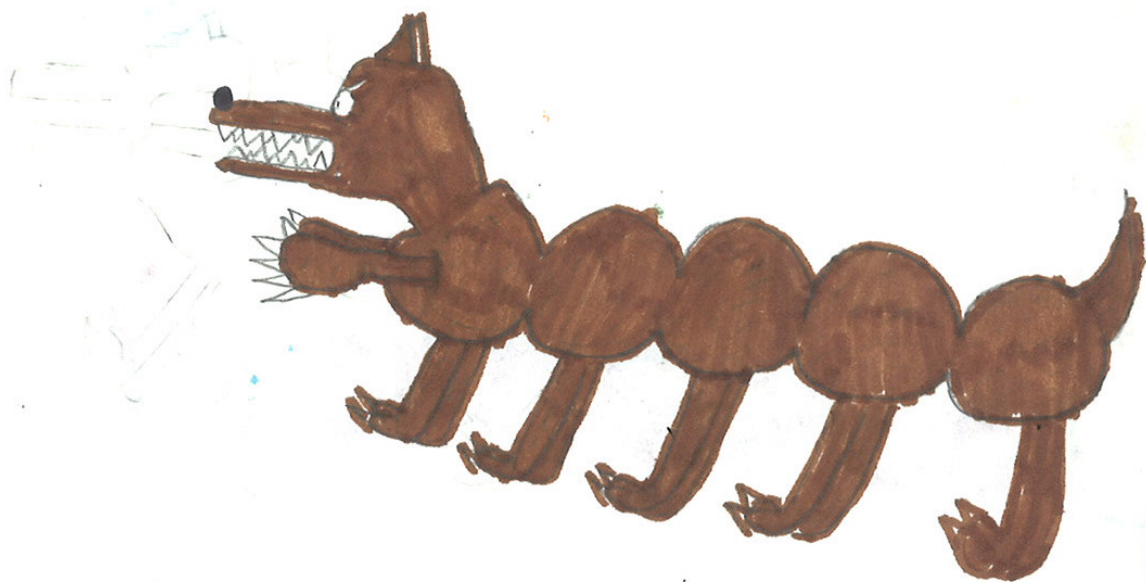

Illustrated by: Steven Jacobs

"Best book ever." New York Times

"When I read it, I can feel it" the Courier

"Part werewolf, part caterpillar. When mixed up there's trouble" Washington Times

Dedicated to Mom and Dad with lots of love

My creature is a werewolfpillar. He eats any living thing (except people, werewolves, butterflies, and caterpillars). He lives in a 52,000,000,000,000 mile tall mansion. He has 32,000,000 rooms in his pool house. He has a t.v. screen as big as an elephant. He has a 13-foot long bed. It has built.

Steven Jacob Oct 11 1967

in messager, heat, t.v., V.C.R., a remote control, refrigerator, freezer, and sink. He has a Sega, Nintendo, and Turbo Graphics 16. He has a game boy. He has a whirlpool and a sauna. He has an exercise room. He has a personal amusement park. His cow is a trailer. It is very big. He can drive good.

He can go back in time. His only enemy is the giant squid. He only will battle that for food. Squid is his favorite food. He loves squid. He will have anything for it, or squid he would climb the Empire State Building. He will even climb the Sewer Tower 5 times.

He is black. He is camouflaged with the night. He also blends in with the shadows. He can change into human form. He is very neat. He has only two of his species. He is next to become extinct. When he is mad, he turns red. When he is cold or sad, he turns blue. When he is scared,

I've had a bad day!

he turns yellow. When he is sick, he turns green. When he is embarrassed, he turns pink.

He is color changeable. He is usually black.

He is different than a real werewolf because he doesn't have long legs. He also doesn't have a long tail. His body is longer than a real werewolves. He has many things different than a real werewolf. He is also the same, too.

His body has a tail. He also has a claw on each side of his body. His head is long and slender. He can stand up when he wants to. His legs are short and stubby. He fingers are six inches long. He is about 5'2" crawling on all fours and 8'5" walking up straight. He has a 7 foot long body. He is always funny. His legs have claws, too. He likes to roll in the mud. He also likes to cook. He built his own house. He likes watching t.v. He likes

DUCK

Werewolf
Stories

Graveyard
Stories

Coffin
Stories

building. His favorite pastime is playing spies. He really likes to read, too.