

H.A.B.I.T.

A new approach to workplace training, founded by leaders in the #MeToo movement and the Time's Up Legal Defense Fund

Lets work together to make respect, inclusion, and equality a part of the job description

We're here to help make the workplace better

When corporate culture improves, we all benefit. To bring about some much-needed change, we have to start with how we educate employees. Trainings should address the culture you want to foster, not just law, policy or procedures. By providing important tools to do just that, H.A.B.I.T. is taking meaningful steps against the sexual harassment, inequality, and bias that's occurring in today's workplace.

Created holistically

Our first step is always to coordinate closely with your company to better understand your culture, dynamics and challenges. With this information in hand, we will tailor a program to meet your specific needs.

The world is changing

Recent headlines have caught all of our attention. Laws and policies are focusing more than ever on eradicating harassment and bias in the workplace, and the data shows that it's working.

Starting at the top

We believe that the tone at the top of an organization plays the most crucial role in setting a company's culture. We work closely with senior management in the development of our programs so that it can become a pillar for the entire workforce.
